

BACPSL

British Association for Counselling & Psychotherapy South London

An independent organisation affiliated to the British Association for Counselling & Psychotherapy

We hope you'll decide to join BACPSL as a student member. This costs just £15 for the year, a £10 reduction on the normal price. All you have to do is supply proof of your student status (eg a copy of a letter from your college about your course). You must also be on a entry level course; student rates do not apply to those in further training but to students on diploma/BTEC courses etc,

Once you have qualified to work in private practice you can advertise in our paper and web directories. Until then, as a student member you'll receive our quarterly newsletter Communications which contains a lot of useful information – networking opportunities, low cost counselling and supervision, articles on counselling topics, lists of workshops and training opportunities in the South London area and much more.

As a member you can also attend our meetings and other social events and network with other members. We also have a website where discounted training is offered to BACPSL members. You'll also be able to access our web based Yahoo Group which is exclusive to BACPSL members.

If you have any questions about membership please contact Sue Medley on sue@syntax2000.co.uk, Tel 020 8300 9646
